Two Methods of Answering.

The editor of the Herald, as we have shown by quoting from the paper which he published in 1864, held at that time that the rebel States were "out of the Union," and that their people were "aliens." Such being his position at that time, the other day we made these inquiries:

> If the rebel States were out of the Union then, when and how did they get in? If their people were aliens then, how happens it that they are now entitled to all the rights and privileges of citizens of the United States?

To these interrogatories he responded as follows, probably thinking that he was answering them:

> Those States were out of the Union under the laws of war; they were restored to the paramount authority of the Constitution by the determination of the war.

In other words, States have the power and right to declare themselves out of the Union at will, and can claim against the Government all the the advantages which belong to an independent nation or belligerent power by the laws of war; and when they find their resources exhausted and themselves utterly unable to protract the struggle, they may lay down their arms, declare themselves in the Union again and entitled to all the rights, as members of the Union, which the adhering States enjoy. When they are out of the Union, they are protected by the laws of nations, when they are in the Union, they are protected by the doctrine of State rights. And they may go out or come in at pleasure, and the National Government has in either case no constitutional rights or remedies. Here is the analysis of this "Democratic" doctrine.

But the editor who made such a superb "secession record" during the rebellion, not only answers questions in this conclusive manner, but undertakes to ask others. As an offset to our own interrogatories, he inquires:

> If those States were in the Union, (during the war,) when and how did they get out? If their people were not aliens then, when or how did they become aliens? If out of the Union then and now, how can they be held amenable to our laws for treason?

Solomon recognizes two methods of answering questions put by persons of this description, and we shall adopt his plan: "Answer a fool according to his folly, lest he be wise in his own conceit." Proceeding on this injunction, we answer first, that those States were in the Union till the termination of the war, and have been out of the Union since the establishment of peace. In making this reply we have closely followed the analogy suggested by the the manner in which the Herald answers questions, as seen above; and we submit at the same time that our reply is quite as logical and conclusive as his own.

But Solomon recognizes also another method. He says: "Answer not a fool according to his folly, lest thou also be like him." Therefore we reply to the above questions, as follows: Those States assumed to secede and destroyed their governments, but did not and could not destroy the right of the United States to exercise jurisdiction over their territory. Their State governments were destroyed, but the people still owed allegiance to the United States, and the General Government was still entitled to all its rights in the Southern territory. Therefore those States were not and are not "out of the Union,"—if any fixed meaning can be given to such a phrase; but having in the first place overturned their loyal governments and set up disloyal governments in their stead, which in their turn were overturned by the war, they lost their relations, as States, with the Government of the Union, and it has become necessary to form State governments anew. This is what is meant by "reconstruction." Their people were never "aliens" but were domestic enemies. Their act was rebellion, and they are amenable to the laws for treason. Johnson has pardoned most of them, but the leader of the rebellion is held for trial as a traitor. Those who engaged in the rebellion are individually responsible for their acts, and it is not the specious plea of having "obeyed their States" which protects them, but it is the magnanimity of of the nation which saves them harmless. The States lately in rebellion have been uniformly treated by Congress simply as States which are out of their proper relations with the Union, and not as Territories which had never attained to the position and dignity of States.

If the rebel States were "out of the Union" during the war, as the Herald claims, they are out still, because Congress, the only power which can admit States has not re-admitted them. If their people were "aliens" during the war, they are "aliens" still, because no laws have been enacted admitting them to citizenship. If the Democratic position during the war was correct, there could be logical objection to regarding the rebel States simply as conquered territory, at the mercy of the Government, and liable to pay full indemnity for the war.

TEA AS A BEVERAGE.—In Russia tea takes the places of our lager, wine, whiskey and other strong drinks in the social and business life of the middle class. We find the samovar, or tea urn, everywhere bubbling, and the fragrant liquid flowing all day long. The merchant or tradesman strikes his bargain over a cup of tea, which seems to be the approved and customary "handsel" in all business transactions. The towns are full of tea shops and are analogous, it seems of our roadside inns. The tea-shops are already full of thirsty souls, so that in some of them from eighty to a hundred pounds weight of this aromatic leaf are brewed daily into countless gallons of drink. There are near seven hundred such shops in St. Petersburg alone. Teetotallers will read with delight and admiration of the exemplary behavior, unsurpassed for religious reverence toward their sacred images, and courteous civility to their fellow mortals, of the poorest peasants and laborers, "cabbies" and carmen, who consume these oceans of tea. Not unalloyed, however, with a dash of corn brandy—just the least taste. Weather-beaten droschky drivers, and rough moujiks, swaddled in their sheepskins, worn with the fleece inward, and kept on in rooms where the temperature is that of an oven, may be seen in these houses washing down their manchets of black bread with almost as many cups "which cheer but not inebriate," as Dr. Johnson used to consume at a soiree. Only a glass of spirits is added by way of a corrective, and to generate heat. What with these boilings and copious potations of tea, and the fiery corn brandy, and the oven like atmosphere, and the sheepskins, the vital temperature forms so sharp a contrast with the external air, where in a mild Winter, the thermometer does not perhaps register above twenty degrees of frost, that, when the moujik packs himself up in his sledge, where he immediately drops off to sleep, the moist and latent heat exhales in volumes of steam as from a locomotive blowing off its surplus. This state is described by the phrase "Pay do trettiavo pota," that is, drinking until the third degree, and the drinker rolled up in his sheepskin, retains his heat, in spite of transpiration, like a baked potato, until the stage is performed and the next tea-inn reached, where the process is repeated.

The Washington Chronicle says that Ex-Gov. Vance, of North Carolina, (rebel) was the first lawyer of note who addressed a colored jury in that military district, empanelled under Gen. Canby's order, and that he addressed them as "gentlemen of the jury," and won his case.

By the enterprise of his agents, the Paris Rothschild received intelligence of the arrest of Garibaldi an hour and a half before the French government received the first dispatch. He made half a million francs by the information.

Teacher's Institute.

The Multnomah County Teacher's Institute will meet as adjourned at the Central School Building, Portland, Dec. 26th, at 10 o'clock A. M. It is hoped that teachers and friends of education will be present and take part in the exercises. A good degree of interest has been manifested during the season in all our schools, some districts have shown enterprise in raising funds to prolong their terms. No. 5, Mt. Tabor District, setting a good example, agreed to keep their excellent teacher, Mr. Pershin, a year at a salary of $800. No. 2 recalled their excellent teacher, Mr. Kittridge, and they seem determined to secure his services for an indefinite time. This is wise. If employers and teachers have confidence in each other, it gives great success to the labors of the school room. No 7, though of the smallest in area, with few pupils and a log school house, has done nobly in keeping Mr. Pratt, at an increased salary, and he has done honor to his profession by his faithfulness and zeal. His set of object charts, bought by himself for the good of the school, not only adorn the walls, but furnish much valuable information that would hardly ever be otherwise acquired by the majority of the pupils. We trust that Mr. Pratt will bring them to the Institute and give some illustrations of their use and value.

No. 4 have not only done well to employ Mr. Riley two terms, but to engage him for another summer. The school showed much improvement in discipline and thoroughness.

No. 8 found in Mr. Brown a faithful instructor, but having as yet few pupils and no school house, and only a single term, little could be done this year. It is to be hoped that the addition of another section to the district will result in the erection of a comfortable school house on the Base Line road, and that the district will be an honorable continuation of East Portland and Mt. Tabor. The finally harmonious division of old No. 3, into three districts, proves best for all.

No. 20 had a successful school term under the care of Miss S. Barker. Their enterprise in preparing to erect a school house on the river road, central to the families, it is to be hoped will be carried out in season for the summer term.

No. 16, once a part of No. 3, will need to exert itself early to have a school house and to stand fairly in the long line of Columbia River District. A little energy on the part of its prosperous farmers will give it the position. The locality is inviting to more settlers.

No. 17 has maintained its reputation this season, by employing for more than two terms, so steady and earnest a worker as Mr. Paddock. No. 30. has done well to recall him to teach during their winter term. No. 3. has received Mr. Riley for the winter, having previously tried two teachers for a short time, often a little mutual forbearance will give success to a school, while a little hastiness would break up.

No. 18 has received a large addition, extending now to the Columbia, and they seem disposed to prolong the school terms. It is a favorable sign to recall a former teacher, Miss Brown. It would be still more encouraging to have a new and commodious school house at or near the junction of the Telegraph and Columbia River Roads. It would add more to the value and [illegible] of the farms than it would cost. Besides its necessity for the school, it would be a gratifying sight to the eye of the many strangers who pass, and local benefit and honor to the people themselves.

No. 9 has been enlarged and harmonized. We were sorry to hear that Mr. Gillet, whose penmanship resembles engraving, remains but one term. The school seemed to be in the way of permanent prosperity under his care. We hope Mr. Hunter will have success there.

No. 25 needs to secure and retain a good teacher. The frequent change of teachers gives an unstable character to the school, which manifests itself in the irregular attendance of the pupils, and also in their habits of study and of recitation. That district has provided a great school house. We hope they will employ a teacher for six or nine months. It will amply reward parents to do so, as it will be far better than to send their children from home to board and attend school.

The school house in No. 19 is one of the most favorable spots on Sauvie's Island. If the building is repaired, reseated, painted, and enlarged, it will be an ornament to the neighborhood and a great advantage to the school. Money enough is drawn by this district to support a good school two terms annually. A little liberality on the part of the rich farmers there can support a third term, and thus furnish their children about as thorough instruction as they could get in our crowded city schools, and at the same time keep them under the influence and restraint of home. Will the good citizens there think of this matter?

No. 11 has lost so many pupils by removals of families that a school is sustained with great difficulty. The families on the slough across the mouth of the Willamette should be united to No. 11 or No. 25. Will they choose which? Their children should draw funds for the benefit of some district.

No. 22 chose to employ a teacher two terms continuously, allowing a long interval, instead of having one separate term per year. In both cases the vacations treble the terms, and afford little opportunity for children to progress. Yet 24 weeks of study are better than the same number seperated by twice as many weeks of vacation.

No. 14 has a good school house, in a good location. Removals from the district weaken the school, yet with united efforts to sustain a good teacher, parents would be saved the inconvenience and some extra expense of sending their children to the city schools.

No. 27 employs a teacher two terms for a small number of pupils. Soon the growth of the city in that direction, will perhaps unite more supporters as well as more families to maintain the school.

No. 10 had a more flourishing school than usual the past season, and wisely employed the same teacher, Miss Scott, during nearly two terms.

No. 6, it is to be hoped, will be united and prosperous under their present agreement with Mr. Wilmot. Divisions injure pupils as well as teachers.

No. 12 is just renewing an old organization, and erecting a school house in a convenient locality.

No. 21—"East Portland," finds the value of their permanent school. It needs to be graded and another room furnished for the large and interesting class of advanced pupils, now under the care of Mr. Sellwood.

No. 31, with commendable earnestness, employ new teachers, as the former ones for any cause, retire. This evinces a purpose to maintain a good school, which will doubtless be more and more crowded with success.

No. 1—"Portland," employs eleven teachers in its Public Schools and from ten to fifteen in its private and corporate schools for about 1,600 pupils, or one teacher to 75 pupils if all attended. It evinces wisdom in continuing the service of a well known and successful corps of instructors. The crowded and overflowing rooms will, we hope, soon be relieved by the exodus of pupils to the new and commodious building in the North part of the city. The time should not be far distant in which a more thoroughly graded system shall be established. The chief work in this respect is needed in the lower department. Deficiency in elementary instruction increases in every advanced grade, while excellence in the primary department will shine more and more as the pupil goes onward and upward. The course of instruction in Miss. Batchelder's school illustrates the value thoroughness in the primary teaching and training.

One section of the county—(the South-west part—fails to revive its school organization. It is a local and a public loss. The present effort to form a new district on the macadamized road deserves the approval of all interested citizens. The law requires the assent of a majority in the district affected by the change. Three years ago it was suggested to the districts outside the city to maintain their schoools for longer periods, and to employ teachers of more experience, instead of sending their children to the city schools and letting their own schools dwindle and die. Some districts have done so with evident profit to themselves and their children. What wise parent is willing to expose his children to the constant and powerful temptations of the city, if he can avoid it? What good economist wishes to incur the increased cost of books clothing, board, and other nameless expenses, if he can secure as good instruction for his sons and daughters near home at less cost? Besides, if directors in the country will employ first class teachers at first-rate salaries, they will soon be more than repaid in the community that will gather around their schools, to enjoy the benefits.

This topic will be up for discussion at the Teachers' Institute. The policy of con[illegible] in towns from the country is injurious to both. It compels the city to provide for the instruction of children who do not belong to it, while it deprives the country of their help.

The value of a good teacher, one who makes this work his profession, is beginning to be felt not only by teachers themselves, but by employers and by pupils. The demand is slowly creating the supply. To raise the standard of examination in this country according to the legal schedule of topics—the Institute will be requested to appoint two or three teachers to assist the Superintendent at quarterly sessions to examine teachers for the county. Those who pass such a board with no certificate, will rank, no doubt, all others in public esteem and secure the best positions and the best rewards.

Description of the Country West of the [illegible]

We have gathered [illegible] from Superintendent Huntington [illegible] the route from here to Fort Klamath, and the [illegible] through which it passes. It is a [illegible] of which little has hitherto been known, and the [illegible] sion of the public has been that it is rough, [illegible], barren, and fit only for a hiding place for the hostile diggers of the sage [illegible] plains. The contrary appears to be true; for [illegible] the account of Mr. Huntington [illegible] is not only a vast extent of excellent grazing [illegible] here and the south boundary of the State, but there is much arable land, which [illegible] to be fertile, and will [illegible] population. Crooked river has a [illegible] of bottom land. Willow and [illegible] afford fine locations, and the [illegible] valley of which [illegible] of the several tributaries of [illegible] all which are valuable farming [illegible] extensive tract of habitable [illegible] valley, it [illegible] on the [illegible] of the [illegible] lies between the [illegible] and the [illegible] tains known as "Paulina's [illegible] east of Eugene City. It is 50 [illegible] by 10 or 15 in width. Its [illegible] The bottoms along the [illegible] ready for the plow, while the [illegible] with an excellent quality of fine [illegible] so open that the growth of verdure is not [illegible] rupted. The water is very [illegible] and fish [illegible] and trout of the [illegible] quality are to be had in the greatest abundance. The [illegible] perhaps frosty in the spring, but it is dry, and as a stock grazing region it is probably not [illegible] ed in the State. A few [illegible] ty, have settled in this valley, and [illegible] tending to remove there [illegible] the spring. We anticipate a large [illegible] the population of Wasco [illegible] of a new [illegible] for [illegible]

From the upper Deschutes to the [illegible] of Klamath, the distance is 35 mi[illegible], and the country nearly level, barren and destitute of water, but covered with an [illegible] timber. High and cold, [illegible] any valuable crop, it will [illegible]

The valley of the [illegible] Lake Toqua on some of the early [illegible] extensive and very fertile, but the elevation is [illegible] at that none but the [illegible] hardy [illegible] raised. The [illegible] Agency, (situated on the [illegible] of the [illegible] that barley and oats can be [illegible] turnips all of the [illegible] tribe of plants [illegible] ish; while [illegible] produced. The [illegible] unlimited quantity, and will [illegible] herds of stock. Link river, which [illegible] the middle with the lower lake, is only a [illegible] of rapids and falls its [illegible] miles, affording fine water-pri[illegible] and the fertile country around will [illegible] for the [illegible] tion of machinery upon it. There is now a considerable settlement in that county, in this State and Siskiyou county, California. Among the names of settlers here, [illegible] Michael Hanley, Geo. [illegible] and Capt. [illegible] and others of our acquaint[illegible] We [illegible] there will be a large emigration to that [illegible] in the spring.

The only obstacle to the rapid [illegible] of this region is the danger of [illegible] the Snakes. This at present is very [illegible] and we apprehend some danger to the [illegible] at [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] winter. They are not strong enough to [illegible] and there is no military force within [illegible] to assist them.

Of the road to Klamath Mr. Huntington [illegible] in the highest terms. It follows the Canyon City road as far as Bake Oven, thence south 35 [illegible] to Trout Creek is [illegible] rough. Then [illegible] to Klamath, and indeed [illegible] nearly level, mostly free from [illegible], and requiring little or no labor to make it suitable for heavy transportation. The table of distances, which we give in another column will be [illegible] who wish to travel the road, and we doubt not they will be numerous after another year. Why cannot we furnish the transportation for a large amount of supplies which each year go to the military post at Klamath? It is worth while for our freighters to give the matter their attention.

A special to the St. Louis [illegible] Washington, November 9th, says: The [illegible] being over, the political status of Gen. [illegible] and the paragraph relative to his relations with Congressman Washburne, continue to be discussed here to-day. Forney reiterates all he said [illegible] Gen. Grant's politics, and adds in the [illegible] that he is authorized to [illegible] as [illegible] false the stories published to the contrary.

Facts against Rhetoric.

Advices from the East state that the prices of almost all descriptions of manufactured goods are rapidly going down to the figures at which they stood before the war. The testimony of our New York letter, published about ten days since, may be cited on this point. Though there has been a reduction of prices on the Pacific coast within a year, the decline, owing to a variety of causes, has not kept pace with the decline in the Eastern markets. Our distance from the centers of trade, the consequent slowness of operations, and the high rates which we are compelled to pay for freights, and which it is understood have recently been increased, all combine to prevent a decline in prices here proportionate with that in Eastern cities. But throughout the greater part of the country cheap goods are now offered to consumers; and in spite of the ad captandum rhetoric indulged in by the repudiating Democracy, farmers and agricultural producers are in a better condition, so far as prices are concerned, than they were in those halcyon days of Democratic ascendency, to which reference is so often made. The people generally are getting very high prices for all they produce, while most kinds of manufactured goods are dropping down to the basis of ante-war times. A late number of a Boston commercial paper says that domestic goods of all kinds have not been so low for many years. Sheetings are quoted at 10½ to 15 cents; bleached sheetings at 13½ to 22, ginghams at 16 to 17; cotton flannels at 13 to 24, and American prints at 12½ cents. The Shipping List, the paper referred to, says that "prints at 12½ cents with gold at 140 are certainly lower than ever previously offered." It is well known that all sorts of farm products within reach of Eastern markets, command prices fully twice as high as they did before the war. Take as an example the p[illegible] at [illegible] of produce in the central part of Illinois and compare them with the prices that ruled in 1860. Consulting a Springfield paper, we find winter wheat quoted at that place one month ago at $2 40 per bushel; corn 80 cents; oats 50 cents, rye 75 cents and potatoes $1 25 to $1 50. At the corresponding time in 1860, winter wheat was quoted at the same place at 70 cts., corn 25 cents, oats 20 cents, rye 45 cents and potatoes 20 [illegible]. Reduce the present price of wheat at $2 40 [illegible], to coin, and we find that the farmers of Illinois get $1 70 per bushel for their wheat, or nearly two and a half times as much as they received in 1860. Dry goods are quoted at the [illegible] places as follows: Sheetings 14 to 16 cents, cotton flannels, 20 to 25 cents, ginghams, 17 cents, tickings, 20 to 32 cents, prints, 11½ to 15 cents. These prices, reduced to gold, are very little, if at all, in advance of those which ruled in 1860. This state of prices fairly indicates the condition of trade throughout the "Great West," and shows that the people have rarely or never been in a better condition, or one in any respect more favorable to prosperity. In 1860 a bushel of wheat would purchase from six to eight yards of calico; it will now purchase from twelve to sixteen. The same rule holds good in reference to nearly all other articles. Before these facts the Copperhead whine about the laboring and producing classes being "ground in the dust," appears ridiculous enough.

JEFF. DAVIS' DISGUISE.—The Army and Navy Journal of November 9th contains an extract from the report of Major General J. H. Wilson, lately published, [illegible] the circumstances of the capture of Jefferson Davis. This report, remarks that paper, settles the question—if it was not settled before—of the [illegible] of cloak and cavalry boots [illegible] Dickinson and Corporal Munger, his [illegible] captors, reported to General Wilson that the [illegible] rebel chieftain was one of three persons dressed in woman's attire," that he had on "a black mantle wrapped about his head, through the tops of which could be seen locks of his hair." [illegible] "Lieut. Dickinson observed that Davis' high-top boots were not covered by his disguise, which fact probably lead to his recognition by Corporal Munger." And, further, Colonel Pritchard says, in his official report, that he received from Mrs. Davis, on board the steamer Clyde, at Fortress Monroe, "a water-proof cloak or robe," which was identified by the men who saw it on Davis at the time of his capture. "From these circumstances," concludes General Wilson, "there can be no doubt whatever that Davis sought to avoid capture by assuming the dress of a woman, or that the ladies of the party endeavored to pass him off on his captors as one of themselves."

An entirely new plan of reconstruction is proposed by one of those patriotic and amiable gentlemen who represent the rebel element in the [illegible] "Dem[illegible]" [illegible] with the law as it is, and apparently with no [illegible] in any of the [illegible] acts of reconstruction, he thinks nothing would so effectually promote that object as the hanging of about twenty "Radicals." This is the way people have talked before, when they had hardly [illegible] the operation themselves. But will the gentleman be satisfied with hanging twenty or thirty? If so, the passion is more easily assuaged than we supposed it could be. Hang us up, then, some twenty of them—let them be men who have done most to maintain the Union and then our amiable rebel friends will consent to be reconciled.

Among the hungry looking Democrats in San Francisco who are clamorous for official position, the Alta notices one of the Chapman pirate crew who is applying [illegible]. He ought by all means to be rewarded. Though his services may not have been brilliant, his intention to serve his party has been good; and if he did not succeed, his failure was owing to the outrageous tyranny of the Abolitionists who checkmated his enterprise and shut him up in Alcatraz.

Weston's pedestrianism is exciting a general furor for walking. A man named Payne started from New York on the 11th November with the intention of walking to San Francisco in 150 days. He will be required to "do" only an average of 22 miles per day; so the feat, if he accomplishes it, will not be a physical wonder, though it will be a performance of some distinction.

It is complained that the Southern negroes are ignorant and unfit to vote. That their learning is small is not surprising. Three years ago it was a capital crime to teach them to read.

Every stamp put upon a deed, a check or a mortgage, is a Democratic sticking plaster to remind the user of a Democratic rebellion.

STATE ITEMS.

A movement is on foot at Eugene City to organize a fire company and buy an engine. A tax is recommended for the latter purpose by many citizens.

The Record gives the following "item:" The pet deer at the brewery of Messrs. Brown & Adolph has a constitutional horror of dogs, and Saturday morning as our carrier approached with his big dog following, the startled fawn ran into the house, and seeing no other exit, it bounded at a dash through the window, shattering the whole sash and shaving the hair almost entirely off one side of its body.

The E[illegible] Journal says: "Last Friday, a member of a hunting party whose name we have forgotten, met with a serious accident a few miles from town. On going to bed, he drew his rifle under the blankets with the muzzle to the head. The gun was loaded with ball patched, and had a large cotton rag stuffed in the muzzle. About midnight, in turning in bed, the gun was discharged, taking effect in his back, twelve inches below the shoulder blade, and following the skin upward, passed out between the shoulder joint and head. The large rag and patch were both left in the wound. Dr. Hanchett was called, attended the man, and removed the cloth. He is regarded as recovering rapidly.

Oregon Farmers and The Railroads.

HILLSBORO, Dec. 4th.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

I notice in your late issues, an article favoring a branch of the Pacific Railroad from Portland to Centerville in the Humboldt valley. The OREGONIAN has given its views of the matter. And now, at the solicitation of some neighbors, I propose to look at this proposed road from the farmer's standpoint: How will it affect their interests? supposing it to be the only railroad outlet Oregon could get. All will admit that any railroad would help us. But which is the route that will most help us, is the question for farmers. All the wheat and flour sold during the late rise in prices and in fact all the surplus Oregon wheat and flour, goes to San Francisco and in going there the Oregon farmers lose about forty cents per bushel on every bushel, by reason of the charges on the present Ocean route of transportation, after it leaves Portland, to say nothing about the expense of getting it to Portland. In this county the average charge for getting wheat to Portland is twenty-five cents; and I suppose to take the Willamette valley through, the average expense of getting wheat to Portland would be, the year round, not less than thirty-five cents per bushel. There is then the sum of seventy-five cents on each bushel of wheat shipped from this valley, taken out of the hard earnings of the Oregon farmers to pay charges on transportation to San Francisco. It is of no use to ask why our wheat goes to San Francisco, or why we cannot get as much in Portland as California farmers get for their wheat. These are the stubborn facts, and they are the facts which have been grinding down Oregon farmers for many years past. We want cheaper transportation, and we must have it, or remain slaves to the present ruinous course of marketing our produce. Just think of it that the Oregon farmer who has one thousand bushels of wheat to sell, must lose seven hundred and fifty dollars, on the value of the wheat in San Francisco. Oregon wheat is not eaten in San Francisco. It is reshipped by the San Francisco dealer to Australia, China, Sandwich Islands, Japan, England and other countries, and how much we save by this reshipment no person here knows, just look at the charges which are imposed on our grain after it leaves our wagons. Freight charges to Portland, drayage in Portland, wharfage in Portland, storage in Portland, Commission dealer profits in Portland, lighterage over Swan Island Bar, primage, pilotage on the Columbia, freight charges to San Francisco; wharfage, drayage, commission, dealers' profits, storage and drayage and wharfage again, before it leaves the vessel to carry it to a foreign market; which vessel ought to have been here to take its load in the Columbia river in the first place, and thus saved this multitude of charges which are eating out the lives of Oregon farmers. If we had direct trade with foreign nations, or the Atlantic States, it would relieve us of a great deal of this tax, but we have not got it. But we hope to see the Portland dealers make an effort in that direction. As for this new branch railroad, it would chain us to California dependence forever. If we must sell our produce to San Francisco, let our railroad connection with that port be as direct as possible, so that the railroad and the steamships and sail vessels will have to compete with each other for our freight, and thus reduce charges. Let us not stop with that, but let us labor for direct railroad communication with Puget Sound, where the great city of the North Pacific is bound to be. But let no Oregon farmer entertain or favor the idea that his produce must be subjected to a branch railroad which must carry it over the Cascade mountains half way to Salt Lake, and then back again over the lines of a California monopoly, and over the snowy heights of the Sierra Nevada before it reaches the market. In what condition would our fruit (one of our staples), be after crossing and recrossing those lofty mountains—spending a day in the icy regions of Klamath lake, and taking the chances for a weeks detention at the junction on the Humboldt?

The argument that this branch railroad will help us go East, does not amount to much. Very few Oregonians want to go East, compared with those who want to go directly to California; and if we do want to go East, a connection in the Humboldt is no better than one at San Francisco. That city is the present centre of trade and interest on this coast, and there is not one man in five hundred going East; who does not want to stop at San Francisco on his way. Suppose you want to go East, when you reach Humboldt you would be at a disadvantage. You must take a back seat to San Francisco passengers; and if you wanted to go to San Francisco, you must defer to passengers from the States; and the same disadvantage, operating with greater force, would detain freights shipped to Humboldt.

The idea that such a branch road would develop any portion of valuable farming land east of the mountains, is a mistaken one. There have been a great many Oregon farmers through the Klamath basin, and everybody knows that it is principally alkali and sage brush; while the coldness of the climate forbids the production of grain or fruits. Fort Klamath receives all its supplies from Rogue River Valley one hundred miles south. Notwithstanding the representations of persons having pecuniary interests in that direction, the facts of the country are against it.

Of course nobody will oppose the construction of any railroad to any point in the country; but if this Humboldt branch scheme is gotten up to embarrass the construction of the Oregon Central Railroad, now being pushed forward by a company having already a large land grant and liberal aid from the State, it ought to be vigorously opposed by all Oregon farmers.

The advantages of the Humboldt route can never be shown to be equal to the route fixed by act of Congress and by act of the Oregon Legislature, for the Oregon Central. If the Government has U. S. bonds to give or dispose of, why not give to the Oregon Central Company? I have subscribed my mite to this enterprise, and so have all my neighbors; and if Congress is to be pressed for U. S. bonds to aid a railroad to Oregon, we demand a fair show and an equal chance for this company, to which we have subscribed our money, and I ask the Oregon delegation in Congress to make a note of this. And I would here call the attention of members of Congress to an act of the Oregon Legislature, approved Oct. 24th, 1866, which provides that the State of Oregon shall pay the interest for twenty years on one million dollars of the bonds of the Oregon Central Railroad Company. Now, if the Oregon Legislature did not believe that the route of the Oregon Central Railroad, as laid out by act of Congress, approved July 25th, 1866, was not the best one for the interest of the State of Oregon, why did it pledge this large amount of State aid? And I would further call the attention of members of Congress to a joint resolution adopted by the Oregon Legislature in 1864, which asked Congress for land grants and pecuniary aid to assist in constructing railroads from the north boundary of the State of California to some point on the Columbia river, and from the overland railroad, near Salt Lake, through Idaho to the Columbia river. I contend that these acts and resolutions are positive instructions to our delegation in Congress to favor and sustain the Oregon Central Railroad, so far as its line relates to Willamette valley, and the route through Southern Oregon. If this Humboldt branch route is feasible or desirable, why was it not mentioned in Congress or in the Oregon Legislature when these various acts and resolutions were before those bodies?

This railroad connection with California has been agitated for the past four years, and yet it is not until the present, after the Oregon Central has commenced work and after it has received subscriptions from the Oregon farmers amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars, that this Humboldt branch is incorporated; and yet both propose to make their northern terminus at the same place.

The Oregon farmers are waking up to the importance of railroad matters. They know that their purses and prosperity, and their products, and the value of their land depends upon the treatment of these railroad interests; and if their voices cannot be heard and heeded now, for fair play and justice, they will most certainly be potent in the promotion of public men in the future. Oregon farmers are the bone and sinew of the State, and they have a right to demand the protection and promotion of their interests at the hands of those receiving public honors from their votes and favor. Oregon farmers want direct railroad communication with Portland, San Francisco and Puget Sound. If any branch Railroad is to go to the Central Pacific it ought to go through Idaho, to Salt Lake, as indicated in the joint resolution of the Oregon Legislature above referred to. This would give us the trade of Idaho, and the choice of connection at Salt Lake with either the Union Pacific or the Central Pacific, thus rendering us independent of any one company to go East. The branch through Idaho is not any longer than the Humboldt branch, and can be completed by the time the overland road is completed. Oregon is also vitally interested in the North Pacific road—one which will give us the trade of Montana; and it is not so uncertain as some suppose, for a company already has an immense land grant, and has expended $180,000 on surveys. In conclusion, I can see no reason why an Oregon farmer, or any citizen of the State, (not interested in the Eugene City Military Wagon Road Company) should favor this Humboldt branch until after the North Pacific, the Salt Lake branch, and the Oregon Central have been constructed. It has not a single national argument in its favor, and not a real Oregon interest to recommend it. I hope every Oregon farmer will exert his influence, by letter or petitions, and otherwise, to have our delegation in Congress support the Oregon Central Company, to which we have subscribed our means and which is pushing its road without asking for any U. S. bonds.

I make no apology for the length of this communication as I think the importance of the farmers interests demand the whole of it.

Yours truly, D. O. QUICK.

P. S. The Oregon press will confer a favor on the farming interest by re-publishing this communication. D. O. Q.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.—This important document reviews many serious questions now pending in our country, advising a reduction of taxes on a number of articles, and even not omitting to proclaim to the citizens of Oregon that KOHN & FISHEL, No. 91 Front street, under all circumstances have proved themselves worthy of the largest share of custom by selling the very best and latest styles of Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Goods; also, Dry Goods lower than any other house in the State.

Buchtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art. Photographs from card to life size. The new cabinet cards, &c., &c. Small pictures enlarged (retouched) in India ink—painted in water-colors or oil by Mrs. S. J. Rumsey. Pictures that are fading can be reproduced in this way. All negatives taken in this gallery will be carefully preserved, and additional copies had. I have now on hand a very large collection of negatives, the names of which are recorded alphabetically in a book for that purpose that can be seen in the reception room.

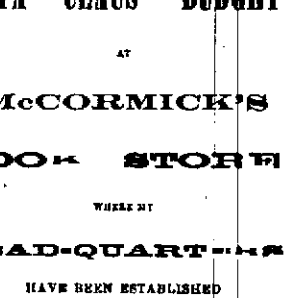
GLORIOUS NEWS FOR THE MILLION!



ANNUAL GRAND OPENING
SANTA CLAUS' BUDGET!
McCORMICK'S
BOOK STORE!
WHERE MY
HEAD-QUARTERS!
HAVE BEEN ESTABLISHED
For the Past Six Years.
and where
I WILL HOLD MY ANNUAL CARNIVAL
DURING THE COMING HOLIDAYS!
MY BUDGET FOR THIS SEASON
COMPRISES
THE LARGEST STOCK!
with
THE HANDSOMEST GOODS!! and
The Cheapest Prices!
AND THAT ALL MAY OBSERVE
The Christmas and New Years'
HOLIDAYS!
I herewith issue my Annual PROCLAMATION!!!

I've come, my dear people, among you once more,
Keeping up the good custom established of yore
I bid you all welcome! I wish you good cheer—
A right merry Christmas and Happy New Year!
You will find me this year, as you have heretofore,
At McCormick's, on Front street—the Franklin Book Store
Where I've opened my Budget—'twas filled to the brim
With every nice Toy that could talk, walk or swim.
I've Musical Work Boxes—and Guitars for the fair
And Gifts for the Gents that are both rich and rare,
Whilst my Budget includes the nicest new Toys
Intended as Gifts to good Girls and Boys!
I've the Ark in which Grandfather Noah was kept
When all other creatures from the world were swept,
(For men in those days would in evil persist,
So the world was washed by an Oregon mist.)
I've Babies of Rubber, of wax and of leather,
(They were all made to order), and well put together;
I've Vases and Cups nicely gilded outside,
And little Cock Horses for Bobbies to ride;
I've Cannon and Pistols which cannot explode,
For the reason they hold neither wadding or load.
I've steamboats that run—you just wind them in front
And they'll beat the Cascade or the Wilson G. Hunt.
I've a new Locomotive—it can never explode,
'Twas built for the use of Gaston's Railroad.
I've Engines that play—Set them down on the floor
And they'll throw greater streams than old '2' or new '4.'
I've Furniture, Fiddles, and French Feathers,
Soldiers that look like R. B. Pioneers.
I've Swords made of tin—Guns and Pistols as well,
And the new kind of Drum that rings like a bell,
I've Masks of all sizes—I've Grace Hoops, galore,
And you'll find at McCORMICK'S a thousand Toys more.
On FRONT STREET the Store is—105,
Where TOYS are as plenty as bees in a hive;
Go there and buy them—this is my request,
His Prices are Low and his Stock is the Best.

COAST SURVEY.—The San Francisco papers notice a recent lecture by Prof George Davidson, of the U S. Coast Survey, before the Academy of Natural Sciences, on Alaska. The Professor has recently returned from a scientific expedition on the cutter Lincoln, and has since this started for Washington to report to the proper Department. The Alta says Prior to the war Mr Davidson had spent many years on this coast, surveying from San Diego to Puget Sound and we understand he will return here in the spring to superintend the operations of the Coast Survey of California, Oregon and Washington as well as Alaska." We find a synopsis of the lecture in the Bulletin from which we condense the following The country bordering the Alexandrian Archipelago, has an elevation of 3000 to 6000 feet. The climate is modified by the great warm oceanic currents which leaving the coast of Japan in about latitude 30° North runs in a northeast direction to the vicinity of the Aleutian Islands and peninsula in latitude 52 North, where it divides, about one third making toward Behring straits and the remainder running eastwardly until it strikes the shores of Alaska on the west, and is [illegible] thence down the Coast of California The rain-falls of Sitka are caused by the meeting of this warm current and an underflow of cool water The average fall of rain for 14 years, was 84 inches There is heavy timber in the vicinity of Sitka trees 150 feet high and four or five feet in diameter The most valuable is a species of yellow cedar There is no hard wood in the country Between Sitka and Alaska lies [illegible] Gulf of Alaska the great whaling grounds of these seas Little patches of ground in the interior are cultivated by the Indians, but not a valley of 100 acres can be found on the coast. The best island on the coast is Kodiac There is splendid pasturage and good grass for hay The waters of the archipelago abound in cod halibut and salmon, the latter being particularly abundant In some of the small streams inland, the progress of boats is frequently impeded by them and millions are thrown on the shores in banks two or three feet deep, where they die He said the aggregate of territory where the cod are found, constitutes a reservoir of 50,000 square miles in extent, with from 25 to 50 fathoms of water, and he entertained no doubt of the fact that the fisheries will in the course of a few years prove much better and more lucrative than those on the eastern side of the continent. Geological matters pertaining to the country still remain, to a great extent, a mystery The expedition could not make any extensive surveys He believed, however, that they succeeded in finding the locality of extensive deposits of bituminous coal and he thought if Government would fit out an expedition to explore it thoroughly, the yield of coal alone would more than pay for the territory Much of the coal in the territory is lignite, but all of it is easily obtained from places contiguous to good harbors Copper exists there in native form He had seen plates of that kept by the Indians as heirlooms, inscribed with certain records and traditions The copper comes from a point on Copper river, about 25 miles from its mouth, He had no hesitation, however, in saying that the deposits of gold and copper sink into insignificance when compared with the coal measures and fishing banks, on which latter the value of the whole country depends

ABOUT PIG IRON.—Among the items of freight landed, [illegible] from the Ajax, we noticed a quantity of pig iron, for the Oregon Iron Works We were naturally surprised at this, because there is an iron smelting-works within [illegible] of this city which is turning out more of pig iron than all the foundries in the Willamette valley can use up. At a later hour, visiting the Willamette Iron Works, we made inquiry whether the Scotch pig is superior to the Oswego iron, and received a [illegible] answer. Why then do the foundries here buy iron at San Francisco? The answer to this, was, that iron could be landed on the wharf from San Francisco for less money than from Oswego. This may seem strange to most people, but the figures support the statement. The Oswego Co., as late as the 23d day of November, charged $60 per ton for their pig iron on the bank of the river at Oswego, and that is the price now for aught the public know to the contrary The steamer charges $1 per ton for lighting it to Portland, making the cost delivered on the wharf, $61 per gross ton. Scotch pig can be bought in small lots at San Francisco for $37 50 per gross ton. The freight, primage, wharfage, etc., amount to $8 54 more, making the aggregate cost, delivered on the wharf in Portland, $46 04, or $14 96 less than Oswego iron. In large quantities the iron can be got in San Francisco at $30 per ton, freight and other charges the same as above, making a difference of $7 46 in favor of buying in San Francisco. It is not [illegible] that Oswego iron sells in San Francisco at a higher figure than does Scotch pig. If it sells for the same then the foundries of this city can and will save [illegible] margin by buying at Oswego [illegible] iron at San Francisco [illegible] at Oswego, seven miles away "That's what's the matter with [illegible]" The foundrymen say they [illegible] stand the Oswego [illegible] and that they are driven to buy at San Francisco.

A CELESTIAL ROW.—Just after dark last evening, the Cal[illegible] on First street, between First and Second, got into a terrific commotion, the exact cause of which, we had some difficulty in ascertaining We do not speak the China language very fluently, and every [illegible] with whom we have the honor to be acquainted, was too much interested in the quarrel to pay the least attention to our agonized questions about "What's the row?" We, at first, supposed the trouble to be about a champagne bottle every Chinaman on the [illegible] and there were seventy or forty of them, was applying [illegible] his mouth apparently in imitation of the [illegible] spirits champagne [illegible]. The supposition was wrong. The true cause of the uproar was that two gay gamblers were unable to take confident views of "mine and thine" as applied to coin for which they were "chanking." The one claimed it, the other claimed it, then came an [illegible] conversation on the subject, which grew into the [illegible] mentioned, as adults from either side fell into line and opened their batteries Both the contestants were heavy on the scare, but neither seemed averse to being the last to begin a contest wherein [illegible] should [illegible] whose was the coin After the words were had waxed big and then subsided about forty times, the [illegible] brethren dispersed in apparently amicable mood to their several dens—perchance to dream "best most likely to begin afresh some [illegible] of "you bets your [illegible] and you takes your choice."

A RELIC.—At the photographic gallery of Mr. J [illegible] may be seen a rude case containing several stuffed birds, the latter in an excellent state of preservation, and exhibiting only long neglect. The case and birds are relics connected with the advent of Dr. McLoughlin into this country. When he came out here as the agent of the Hudson's Bay Co. he brought with him an expert taxidermist, for the purpose of preserving the forms of the rarest native animals and birds, to be sent home to England The contents of the case were prepared by him, but were never sent away. Whether they were [illegible] to be sent to England or merely for Dr. McLoughlin's private cabinet does not appear, but at all at [illegible] they have remained in the family ever since, till the other day, they were sent to Mr. [illegible] to have them brushed up and made presentable [illegible]. It is now nearly thirty-six years since the [illegible] exerted his skill upon the birds, and they are to-day apparently as [illegible] and untouched with decay as when they came from his hands. With ordinary care they may be kept as good as new till the "oldest inhabitant" can't tell when Oregon was first settled

GO IT, YOU CRIPPLES.—The Alta California thus notices the effect upon the street appearance of ladies, of the high heeled shoes, now so much the height of fashion: "The last trace of a free graceful, swinging gait among our fashionably-dressed women, has disappeared Instead of moving easily and gracefully along, with a swan-like motion, our belles hobble and stump painfully and slowly over the sidewalks, every movement of the limbs awkward and unattractive, and disagreeably suggestive of corns bunions and a coming generation of club-footed American citizens and citizenesses All in consequence of high heels The same hobble and stump gait is excessively fashionable here The shops are anticipating [illegible] for stilts, next month

SHATTERED CONSTITUTIONS RESTORED by HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU.

PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER.

THE UNIVERSAL REMEDY FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL COMPLAINTS

At this period there are but few of the human race unacquainted with the merits of the Pain Killer, but while some extol it as a liniment, they know but little of its power in easing pain when taken internally, while others use it internally with great success, but are equally ignorant of its healing virtues when applied externally We therefore wish to say to all that it is equally successful whether used internally or externally, and it stands alone, unrivalled by all the great catalogue of Family Medicines, and its sale is universal and immense The demand for it from India and other foreign countries is equal to the demand at home, and it has become known in these far off places by its merits

ENFEEBLED AND DELICATE CONSTITUTIONS, of both sexes, use HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU It will give brisk and energetic feelings, and enable you to sleep well.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!
A Pure and Powerful Tonic,
Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.
PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.
Prevents Fever and Ague and Billious Remittent Fever Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water, invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels,
Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.
REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.
Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness, Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL, and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants
The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion Acting as a gentle and painless aperient as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs
Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes
As a Genuine Tonic, HOSTETTER S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them
Last but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day
SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Krumley

On the banks of Krumley,
Lighting up their sh[illegible],
Lives my beauteous Mona
The fairest maid of maids

O blushing flowers of Krumley,
Tis she that makes you sweet
And I am sighing by the silver waves,
That murmur at her feet—
I am sighing dying by the waves
That murmur at her feet

Ye woody banks of Krumley
I'm jealous of your boughs
For they murmur love t' Mona
When she's calling home her cows

I tell ye, banks of Krumley,
It is not your sunny days
That set your grassy reaches
With blossoms all ablaze!
Oh dim and dewy dingles,
It is not your birds at all
That make the air one warble
From rainy spring till fall

Oh bold bold winds of Krumley,
Do ye mean my heart to break,
That ye toss her hair so lightly,
And so lightly kiss her cheek!
Oh, bold, bold winds of Krumley,
Do ye mean my heart to break?

Mrs Candle's Curtain Lectures

MRS CAUDLE DISCOURSES OF MAIDS OF ALL-WORK AND MAIDS IN GENERAL—MR CAUDLE'S "INFAMOUS BEHAVIOR" TEN YEARS AGO

"There, now, it isn't my intention to say one word to-night, Mr Caudle No, I want to go to sleep, if I can, for after what I've gone through with to day, and with the headache I've got,—and if I haven't left my smelling salts on the mantel piece, on the right hand corner just as you go into the room—nobody could miss it—I say nobody could miss it—I say, nobody could miss it—in a little green bottle; and—well, there you lie like a stone, and I might perish and you wouldn't move. Oh, my poor head! But it may open and shut, and what do you care?

"Yes, that's like your feeling just. I want my [illegible], and you tell me there's nothing like being still for a headache Indeed! But I'm not going to be still; so don't you think it That's just how a woman's put upon But I know your aggravation—I know your art You think to keep me quiet about that minx, Kitty, your favorite, sir! Upon my life, I'm not to discharge my own [illegible] without—but she shall go If I had to do all the work myself, she shouldn't stop under my roof. I can see how she looks down upon me; I can see a great deal, Mr Caudle, that I never choose to open my lips about—but I can't shut my eyes. Perhaps it would have been better for my peace of mind if I always could Don't say [illegible]. I'm not a foolish woman, and I know very well what I'm saying. I suppose you think I [illegible] that Rebecca? I know it's ten years ago since she lived with us—but what's that to do with it? Things aren't the less true for being old, I suppose, Mr. and your conduct, Mr. Caudle, at [illegible] if it was a hundred years ago I should never forget. What? I shall always be [illegible]? I hope I shall—I trust I [illegible] have my eyes about me in my own house! Now, don't think of going to sleep Caudle, [illegible] you've brought this on about that [illegible] you will hear me Well, I do want [illegible] her! Eh? You didn't name her! What's nothing at all to do with it, for I know just [illegible] think, as if you did. I [illegible] you'll say you didn't drink a glass of wine to her? Never? So you said at the time, but I've thought of it for ten years, and the more I've thought, the surer I am of it. And at that very time [illegible] if you will please to recollect at the very [illegible]. I shouldn't [illegible] have cared but for that, but he was hard by [illegible] a glass of wine to that creature. No; I am not mad and I'm not [illegible]. I saw how you did it, and the [illegible] worse I saw you; [illegible] the creature was just behind my chair you [illegible] saying to me, "[illegible]" your eyes at the [illegible] and saying "My dear," as if you wanted me to believe that you spoke only to me, when I could see you laugh at her behind me And at the time little Jack wasn't on his feet What do you say? [illegible] forget me! Ha! Mr. Caudle, it's you that ought to ask for that, I'm safe enough, I am; it's you who should ask to be forgiven [illegible]

"No, [illegible] didn't slander a chint—and I didn't take away the girl's character for nothing I know she [illegible] for what I said, and I know you paid damages for what you call my ten[illegible] all that. And serve you right; if you hadn't laugh'd [illegible] would not have [illegible] But if you'll [illegible] face with such [illegible] for it 'Twould [illegible] served you right if the lawyer's bill had [illegible] double. Damages, indeed! Not that anybody's [illegible] have done [illegible] her!

"And now, Mr. [illegible], you're the same man you were ten years ago. What? You hope so! The more [illegible] for you. At your time of life, with all your children growing up about you, to,—What am I talking of? I know very well, and so would you, if you had any conscience, which you haven't. When I say I will discharge Kitty, you say she's a very good servant, and I shan't get a better. But I know why you think her good; you think her pretty, and that's enough for you; as if girls who work for their bread have any right to be [illegible]—which she isn't. Pretty [illegible] to go mincing about with their [illegible] as if even the flies would spoil 'em But I [illegible] what a bad man you are now, it's no use your denying it, for didn't I hear you talking to Mrs. Prettyman, and didn't you say that you couldn't bear to have ugly servants about you? [illegible] didn't you say that? Perhaps you did, [illegible] to confess it? If your principles, Mr. Caudle, aren't enough to make a woman's blood run cold!

"Oh yes, you've talked that stuff again and again; [illegible] I might have believed it, but I know a little more of you now. You like to see pretty [illegible], just as you like to see pretty statues, and pretty flowers, and anything in nature that's pretty, just, as you say, for your eye to feed upon. Yes, I know your [illegible] what they [illegible] ten years ago; for shall I ever forget that glass of wine when little Jack was in arms, it's as fresh as yesterday, and I never will cease to talk of it. When you [illegible] me, how can you ask it?

"And now you insist upon keeping Kitty, when there's no having a bit of crockery for her? That girl would [illegible] the Bank of England,—I know she would,—if she was to put her hand upon it. But what's a whole set of blue China to her beautiful blue eyes? I know that's what you mean, though you don't say it.

"Oh, you needn't [illegible], for you don't think I shall ever forget Rebecca Yes,—it's very well for you to swear at Rebecca now,—you didn't swear at her then, Mr Caudle, I know. (Margaret, my dear!) Well, how you can have the face to look at me—You don't look at me? The more shame for you

"I can only say, that either Kitty leaves the house or I do. Which is it to be, Mr Caudle? Eh? You don't care! Brute! But you're not going to get rid of me in that manner, I can tell you. But for that trull, now you may swear and rave as you like—You don't intend to say a word more? Very well, it's no matter what you say [illegible], on Tuesday, and go she shall. A soup-plate and a basin went yesterday

"A soup plate and a basin, and, when I've the headache as I have, Mr Caudle, tearing me to pieces! But I shall never be well in the world—never. A soup-plate and a basin!"

A New Method of Recording Votes —Letters patent have just been issued to four gentlemen—James K. [illegible], Augustus P. Boyle, E M Lewis, and M A Clancy—all residents of Washington, for an invention which, if it can accomplish what is claimed for it, will greatly facilitate the operations and economize the time of legislatures and other deliberative bodies By an arrangement of wires similar to that of the hotel annunciator, connecting the desks of the members of a deliberate body with the voting apparatus, members are enabled to vote all at once, after a moment's time being allowed for a change of vote by any member who may desire it, the result—that is, the individual vote of each member, together with the aggregates respectively of the yeas and nays—are plainly shown on the dial plates Simultaneously with the summary result, the name of each member voting is printed for the use of reporters of the press Eight distinct claims made by the inventors have been allowed by the commissioner of Patents and arrangements are being made for the construction of a machine for the use of the Common Council of this city If this attempt proves a success, we see no [illegible] why the invention will not be adopted by similar bodies in other cities, by the legislative bodies of the different States, and by Congress —Washington Chronicle

A breech loading shot gun is the newest thing in the sporting line It is fired four times within as many seconds, by simply cocking and discharging, and is re-charged in less time than it takes to write the fact For charging durable steel cartridges are used placed in a revolving cylinder, called a carrier—a part of the barrel—and take their proper position in the act of cocking the gun

Walt Whitman threatens the public with one of his barbaric yawps in reply to the Shooting Niagara The annihilation of Carlyle will be in prose.

The Future of Our Country

The Washington Chronicle publishes an interesting article epitomizing the report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office for the past year Accompanying the report are thirty maps descriptive of the several States and Territories, together with the most splendid map of the world ever published

The report is said to be very elaborate upon the mineral resources of the country, and the great Pacific slope receives in it a very considerable share of attention It is calculated that there is room and resources west of the Rocky Mountains for 100 000 000 of people Probably we have but this conjecture will stand little chance of being verified for a century or two yet. But coming down from conjectures of this sort to the contemplation of results which are capable of speedy realization we find in this article some paragraphs which are worthy of being reproduced We quote as follows

"The trade of the Indies of China, of Japan of all the Eastern world must flow into this country and through this country to the rest of the world To San Francisco, and thence to New York, all the precious metals of the Eastern world will find their markets for the world Wilson shows how we are now 3 000 miles ahead of England in our routes to China and Japan and the Indies He shows in full the necessary diversion of the trade to this country, and its effects on our public lands in the Pacific slope and the Mississippi Valley He gives on the map of the world every railroad line completed or in contemplation in this country He speaks in detail of the various Pacific Railroads, announces the important fact that by October, 1869 the main road will be finished and the great steam horse will carry us from New York to San Francisco direct.

He says there are now 37 000 miles of completed railroad in this country, which since their commencement is at the rate of 1,000 miles a year He further says that there are in course of construction 17,860 miles of railroad For these roads completed and for those in contemplation, the Government has donated over 154 800,000 acres of land He speaks in detail of the immense increase of the wealth of the country by the warranted advance in public lands bordering on all those roads. Wilson's treatise on our domestic and foreign trade, in these papers, is invaluable to our commercial world. He demonstrates that our present domestic trade is over $5,000 000,000.

He shows conclusively that we are bound to absorb the immense trade of Northern and Eastern Asia, by way of San Francisco and New York He gives full details about the Suez Canal, shows how England has been acquiring immense wealth from her Indian possessions—her present income being over £78,000,000 in tariffs for the last year just from that source, shows how we are 3 379 miles nearer to Melbourne, Australia, than England or France, tells us all about China and Japan, and our increasing trade with those countries, gives the names of the cities for trade, and how the shipments are made to San Francisco, then to New York, and then to Europe, and through our own country; gives an interesting account of the trip of the steamer Colorado from San Francisco to Japan in twenty seven days, and her return in three weeks, laden with a rich freight The same trip from London or Paris would take sixty days each way Rapidity of travel, Wilson contends, will draw the travel and the trade. The teas and silks of China and Japan must come through us to the rest of the world The trade was worth $260,000,000 last year to our European neighbors. We'll get this trade. It is rapidly coming to us

Wilson's learned and instructive digest of the trade of the world since the time of Alexander the Great up to the present time is altogether the best written article on the subject we have ever had the pleasure of perusing His description of our great country, its railroads, rivers, canals and other internal improvements, his full description of the Pacific slope, with its 100,000,000 acres of undisposed of public lands, and its great Pacific railways, is a state paper which every man in this country, desirous of being informed of our true national greatness and prosperity and great prospects of the future, will eagerly seek for. Wilson reports that there is room enough on the Pacific slope for forty new States He thinks that by the commencement of the next century we will be a united country of one hundred States, with the control of all the treasure shipments of the world He says this country has commenced her imperial course, with the control of the Eastern trade in her power, and that the immigration and natural growth of the country will place us at over one hundred millions of people by the year 1900.

An Antiquarian Discovery —The Fond du Lac (Wis) Commonwealth of Oct 15th, in an article on the ancient [illegible] of America, says

Dr Whittier, of this city, [illegible] showed us some ancient [illegible], which, [illegible] with the location in which they were discovered, will be of great interest to the scientific and antiquarian world Discoveries have recently been made at Nashville, which have led to the belief, that at some day this country has been inhabited by a race further advanced in the arts of civilization than the [illegible], and this discovery, away off on the plains of Kansas, will [illegible] link to the chain of that belief. The [illegible] has been guiding some [illegible] among [illegible] places visited Butler [illegible], which lies in the southwestern part of the State. The county has not been very extensively settled in, at present containing only about a thousand inhabitants Whitewater river runs through this county, and, while walking along its banks, the Doctor discovered near the water's edge what appeared to be bones Impelled by a natural curiosity, he investigated the subject, and was rewarded by finding that his surmises were correct He found quite a number of bones, some of which he thought were human, but as they were all more or less decomposed, it was hard to decide whether they had belonged to human beings or to animals He found one, however, which was four or five feet in length and about fifteen inches in circumference This bone had been broken off, and had some day belonged to an animal larger than any now known on this continent.

Stimulated by these discoveries, he pushed his researches further, and commenced to excavate the bank of the river where the bones were first discovered protruding out, as if the encroachments of the river had exhumed them from their burial place He dug into the bank where he found an apartment about three feet wide, and five feet deep, thirteen feet below the surface, the walls or edge of which were of hard clay substance, evidently the work of human hands In this apartment he found several urns Each urn was provided with two handles had evidently been made of hard clay and was filled with a substance which looked like ashes The vessels were somewhat broken, but one of them was about two feet high, the balance smaller The Doctor showed us pieces of two urns, including the handles, which he brought home with him, and now has at his office They are rudely constructed, yet there is a display of ornamental work on one of the handles, which shows that whoever made it—whether before or after the flood—had an eye for beauty, rude though it was The top of one of the urns is also rudely ornamented The Doctor is of the opinion, that at some day this apartment was used as a burial place by a race of which we have no historical or traditional knowledge He is also of the opinion that urns were filled with the ashes of the dead If this theory is correct—and there is no reasonable doubt but that it is—this discovery establishes that the prairies of Kansas have at sometime been inhabited by a race of people superior to the American Indians The uncivilized Indians have no knowledge of pottery of any kind Their burial customs are also known to be far different than that indicated by this discovery

Soldier Wit —We have read many amusing specimens of soldier wit during the late war, but as good as we have seen was the reply of a Virginia cavalryman to a Fourth Carolina infantry man It was on the march toward Adairsville, in November, 1863 a cold, bright morning, while the troops were lying along the road, waiting for obstacles to be removed in front A fellow came jogging down the line on an old flea bitten frame of a horse, and as he passed a chap greeted him thus

"I say, mister, you are mighty like a brother of mine the hogs eat up

The cavalryman did not relax a muscle, but gazing 'tar heel' full in the face, replied

'Well, my friend, 'tis a monstrous pity they hadn't finished the family while they was a eatin'," and moved on amidst shouts of laughter

Fashionable Literature —Miss Smith "I have been to get Miss Bangum's last new novel The last one was lovely! There was a girl married two men, and found out afterwards the first was living, which was bigamy, you know! Well, after the most heart rending sufferings she is enabled to marry a splendid fellow for the other two chaps die A rich relative dies just at the last and leaves her a large fortune If this is as good I will sit up all night to finish it" Miss Jones "Oh, do! and then lend it to me!"

"Mediums" in London have consulted the spirit of Elizabeth Barrett Browning, and she, or it, expresses opposition to Robert marrying Jean Ingelow.

During the battle of Kinston a brigade of North Carolina Junior Reserves behaved badly and retreated before the Union forces The General seized one of the fugitives and held this conversation with him General—What are you running for? Jim — Oh, General the Yankees were shooting! General—Why didn't you shoot back again Ain't you ashamed of yourself You are crying like a baby' Junior [illegible]—I wish I was a baby Oh, I wish I was a baby!

A [illegible] The Memphis [illegible] says [illegible] that either [illegible] or children shall have [illegible] playing in [illegible] Andrew Johnson's [illegible] ordering his people [illegible] thanksgiving Let the Puritans meet and pray—let them meet and thank God and kill the fatted calf and shed all sorts of innocent blood over the condition of the country but let no Southern man meet and snivel and whine with hypocritical tears

Sublime Sensation —The San Francisco Examiner, whose editor ought to know says

The policeman's baton seems as attractive as that which designates a Field Marshal of France We are assured that there are already 1,500 applicants for police appointments and the number is being daily increased and will probably reach 5 000 before January, when the new Commissioners will assume office

THE ROYAL BALSAM!

HAS NOW BEEN BEFORE THE PUBLIC FOR A length of time, and wherever used is highly recommended, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction but, on the contrary, all are delighted with it and speak in the highest terms of its magical effects The astonishing efficacy of the ROYAL BALSAM, in curing the diseases for which it is recommended entitles it to the highest rank among the list of medicines, and no family can be without it after once trying it

☞ Read the following testimonials from some of the most prominent citizens of Oregon

MIRACULOUS CURE.

Dr Henley—Dear Sir I feel it but a duty to inform you and the public what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my wife She had been affected with a severe cough for several weeks which had assumed a dangerous feature for which many physicians have been trying without any material benefit, and all the remedies failed to give her any relief. Without relief was got I feared for the worst, in her present condition. The cough appeared to be worse at night, she could get no rest—when Mr Randall, of this place, advised me to try your Royal Balsam, all other remedies having failed I concluded to try it and I purchased two bottles strange to say by the time I gave her three spoonsfuls of the Balsam she got relief and slept, a thing she had not done for three nights previous By the time she had taken one bottle the cough was checked Its effect was truly miraculous as the cure was effectual Hence I have no hesitation in recommending the Royal Balsam to all who are afflicted and it appears astonishing to me that medicine of such great merit and I might say magical effect, is not more in use My candid opinion is, if persons use it once, they never be without it in the house
Vancouver, March 1, 1867. H COCHRAN

From Wm. Doty.

North Yamhill July 15, 1867

Dear Dr. Henley—It is with sincere gratitude I undertake to write to you what your Royal Balsam has done for me. For the last 12 years I have been afflicted with a severe cough and what also some of the physicians called the Bronchitis, and have spent a fortune to get cured, trying all the physicians and remedies I could get to no purpose, Through the influence of my neighbors (for you have a great name with them here,) I got a bottle of your Royal Balsam and finding that it relieved me considerable I sent for a half dozen more And now after one month using it I am perfectly cured I gained ten pounds within a month and feel quite a different man I send you this for publication for the benefit of humanity that through my experience others in affliction may be relieved as I have been Yours truly,
WILLIAM DOTY

From Sophia M. Holman.

Dear Dr Henley—It is my duty to inform you and the public what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my children Two of them had a very bad cough and cold I got a bottle of the Royal Balsam, and gave them some at bedtime and some in the morning and that was all that was needed to cure them I was astonished at not hearing them cough again, but so it was I find if you give it in larger doses it will make the children throw up in an instant and I think every mother ought to have a bottle of your Royal Balsam in the house in case a child should get the croup for which it is a sure remedy as it acts like magic on children What I have seen and heard from my neighbors about the Royal Balsam I would sooner depend on it than on any prescription from any physician I have lost two children within the last year of the same disease, had I had at the time some of the Royal Balsam I am confident my dear ones would be alive now I shall always recommend it to all my friends, for I consider it a blessing and Godsend to mankind
Yours truly, SOPHIA M HOLMAN

From Drs. Bell & Parker.

We have sold a great deal of Medicine since we have been in business and now have fifteen different kinds of Expectorants for sale But Dr Henley's Royal Balsam takes the palm from all In fact we sell six bottles of Royal Balsam to one of any other kind—and really it seems of no use to keep any other During our experience we have never seen any medicine that gives the satisfaction the Royal Balsam does as is proven by the results daily coming in from the country of old Chronic cases when nothing else would remove the dreadful cough they had I find it is good for Bronchitis and Asthma We acknowledge it is a pleasure to sell medicine that gives such universal satisfaction
BELL & PARKER
Druggists Oregon City

From W. F. Barber.

Dr Henley—Dear Sir I had the Asthma for the last four years so bad that it came near choking me I tried all the patent medicines recommended for the cure of Asthma without doing me the least good till I was told to try some of your Royal Balsam which on several afflicted with the same disease has performed wonders I am using it now for a week and strange to say I have not experienced anything since and I really believe that I am perfectly cured and now I shall never be without a bottle of the Royal Balsam in the house in case of a similar attack, and I have no hesitation in recommending it to all afflicted with the same disease
I am Yours truly
W F BARBER

From J. H. Morrill.

Dear Dr. Henley—I think it but justice to you that these few lines should be made known to the public for there is so much humbug going on in patent medicines and quack nostrums now a days that I had lost all faith [illegible] in the shape of medicine I was affected with what is called Bronchitis for the last thirty years, I coughed and wheezed for a [illegible] I tried some of the best physicians in the Atlantic States and in this coast all to no purpose [illegible] could get no relief and I [illegible] there was no relief for me in the world I was induced to try a bottle of your Royal Balsam and it had a most remarkable effect on me and before I had used up four bottles the cough left me and I can talk as [illegible] as anybody my wife and neighbors don't know what to make of it My opinion is that if they knew the value of the Royal Balsam there is not a family in the country that would be without it I think there is not a better medicine in existence for Bronchitis or Cough than the Royal Balsam and I conscientiously recommend to all so afflicted to give it a fair trial
I remain yours truly
